new stationery

new label design

new fact sheet layout

Plants Management Australia (PMA) today launched its new corporate identity. The new look extends to their updated website which has been designed to provide information and support for plant breeders, growers, international agents, landscapers, retailers, consumers and members of the horticultural media.

“Our goal is to update our corporate identity to reflect the growth PMA has experienced in recent years. We represent an increasing number of independent plant breeders, and deal with members of the horticultural industry right across the globe. PMA, established since 1992, is certainly now a leading agent in horticultural licensing, marketing and distribution. We continue to extend the services that we offer to independent plant breeders and our company has developed and matured to facilitate this.”

Please note we now have new phone and fax numbers. The mailing address remains the same.
